Demand for gold continues to be driven by risk aversion; on Monday, the shiny metal crossed the $2,900 mark. United States (US) President Donald Trump's remarks, in which he promised to slap additional tariffs over the weekend, increased demand for safety.

President Trump told reporters aboard Air Force One on Sunday that he would impose additional 25% tariffs on all steel and aluminium imports into the United States. He also promised to shortly announce reciprocal duties to any nations that impose taxes on American goods and services. During US trading hours, XAU/USD continued to rise towards $2,911.21, where it is currently trading close to the mark.

Short-Term XAU/USD Technical Analysis

Technically speaking, XAU/USD is ready to continue its upward trend. It has fallen from its recent peak, according to the daily chart, and is currently trading at about $2,900. Without showing any symptoms of upward exhaustion, technical indicators continue to slope higher deep into overbought territory. Additionally, the 20 Simple Moving Average (SMA) developed about $140.00 below the present level and surged north well above the bullish 100 and 200 SMAs. Higher highs are ahead, but a corrective fall is still possible.

The 4-hour chart indicates that XAU/USD is bullish in the immediate term, although a corrective dip is still possible. The Relative Strength Index (RSI) indicator consolidates at about 73, but the Momentum indicator moves decisively north, well over its 100 level. Meanwhile, moving averages are heading strongly north, just below the present level. At $2,870.10, a bullish 20 Simple Moving Average (SMA) is offering intraday support.

Levels of support: 2,886.60 2,872.30 2,855.45

Levels of resistance: 2,911.60 2,925.00 2,940.00

Despite the upbeat sentiment in the stock market, investors continue to seek out safe-haven investments. In contrast to its high-yielding competitors, the US Dollar (USD) is trading with more conviction, and demand for Gold and the Japanese Yen (JPY) is higher than that for the USD. However, investors are being cautious as they await fresh Trump stories, so Wall Street is only able to hang on to tiny intraday gains.

U.S. interests will continue to dominate this week. On Tuesday and Wednesday, Federal Reserve (Fed) Chairman Jerome Powell will appear before Congress. Market participants are hoping for new information on monetary policy's future. In addition, on Wednesday, the US will release the January Consumer Price Index (CPI). Economists are projecting a core annual reading of 3.1%, which is lower than the 3.2% recorded in December.

BTCC FAQs

Is BTCC safe?

Based on its track record since 2011, BTCC has established itself as a secure cryptocurrency exchange. There have been no reports of fraudulent activity involving user accounts or the platform's infrastructure. By enforcing mandatory know-your-customer (KYC) and anti-money laundering (AML) procedures, the cryptocurrency trading platform gives consumers greater security. For operations like withdrawals, it also provides extra security features like two-factor authentication (2FA).

Is KYC Necessary for BTCC?

Indeed. Before using BTCC goods, users must finish the Know Your Customer (KYC) process. A facial recognition scan and legitimate identification documents must be submitted for this process. Usually, it is finished in a few minutes. This procedure has the benefit of strengthening the security of the exchange and satisfying legal requirements.

Because their accounts will have a lower daily withdrawal limit, those who do not finish their KYC are unable to make deposits. It should be noted that those who present a legitimate ID without a facial recognition scan will likewise have restricted withdrawal options.

Is There a Mobile App for BTCC?

Indeed. For users of iOS and Android, BTCC has a mobile app. The exchange's website offers the mobile app for download. Since both the web version and the mobile app have the same features and capabilities, they are comparable.

Will I Have to Pay BTCC Trading Fees?

Indeed. BTCC levies a fee for trade, just like a lot of other centralised exchanges. Each user's VIP level, which is unlocked according to their available money, determines the different costs. The BTCC website provides information on the charge rates.

Can I Access BTCC From the U.S.?

You can, indeed. According to its website, BTCC has obtained a crypto license from the US Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN), which enables the cryptocurrency exchange to provide its services to investors who are headquartered in the US.

According to BTCC's User Agreement document, its goods are not allowed to be used in nations and organisations that have been sanctioned by the United States or other nations where it has a licence.
